STANSBURY PROGRESS ASSOCIATION INCORPORATED

With a long and cold July, we are looking forward to Spring which is just 4 weeks away! In the meantime, we are enjoying the view of the beautiful colours in the paddocks and the flocks of sheep with their offspring. This time of year, is also a great time for long walks on the beach, soaking up some vitamin C.

Stansbury Progress Association Inc – AEM
Monday 3 August 2026 at 7pm – Stansbury Sports and Community Club, Club rooms.
All are welcome to attend.

The nominees' names for the vacant positions on the committee are displayed on the Community Notice Board at the Institute Hall and their profiles are displayed in the window of the Visitor Information Centre.

Stansbury Progress Association Inc – Annual Dinner
The Progress Association's Annual Dinner was held on 22 July at the Dalrymple Hotel. The dinner is held as a thank you to the committee members who volunteer their time to the Association. Thank you also to the Dalrymple Hotel's management and staff for the beautiful dinner and service.

Stansbury Whole Town Garage Sale & Winter Market
The Winter Market and the Town Garage Sales which were held on Saturday July 11, was an extremely successful event with great support from both locals and visitors from outside our region. The weather was not showing its best side but attendees braved the rain and visited the 13 garage sale locations spread around the town.
Thank you to all our volunteers who helped preparing this event.
A big thank you to the Lions Club who served their lovely Devonshire Tea and to the Stansbury Museum who unfortunately had to succumb to the rain and pack up their BBQ stall earlier than expected.

STANSBURY MUSEUM

Rowena Smith

The Stansbury Museum AGM will be held on August 14th at 9am at the museum
Any interested person is welcome to attend

The Stansbury Museum is run by a committee of volunteers. As well as office holders eg Chairman, Treasurer, Minute Secretary, there are committee members who provide valuable contributions in many other ways –knowledge of the local area and history, practical experience, business experience, passion for history and the local area and specific knowledge of museums and current curatorial practice.

If you care about the contribution that the Stansbury Museum makes to our community and would be interested in joining us, please join us at the AGM as an observer, potential volunteer or even potential committee member. We welcome anyone and believe that everyone who volunteers can make a valuable contribution in their own way and to their own capacity. If you have any questions, feel free to call either Carrol 0409 094 009 or Rowena 0407 188 689.

A wedding outfit displayed in our clothing room gave me pause for thought. It is unlike some of the other wedding outfits in our display. Most of these are white or off white and were dresses that use fabrics and decoration that were leant to them to be worn on the wedding day only. The outfit that sparked my interest was a handmade, wedding outfit made in South Australia in 1885.It is a panelled, long skirt and tailored waistcoat styled jacket with a blouse. Only the frilled and pintucked cotton blouse is white. The jacket and skirt are made of two different fabrics in two different colours – a plain brown fabric interspersed with and trimmed with patterned brocade like fabric in a lighter colour. The jacket fastens at the front with 15 small brown buttons. This wedding outfit is beautifully made and quite striking. It also has the advantage that it could be worn after the wedding as a very smart outfit for other special occasions. In fact, white wedding dresses that were worn on one occasion only, became fashionable after Queen Victoria's wedding when she wore creamy white, silk satin trimmed lavishly with Honiton lace. Her choice of wedding dress sparked a global trend when it was reported in the newly burgeoning, newspaper industry. It became a symbol of wealth and status and came to portray purity and innocence. Before this, wedding dresses in the UK were any colour. In fact, often more practical darker colours made up in smart day wear styles. Brides often wore their wedding dresses to church on the Sunday following their wedding as a married woman. These were practical decisions, borne out of necessity.

Different cultures and different societal classes and different periods of history favoured different colours. In Ancient Rome, yellow was a commonly worn colour as it was associated with warmth and fertility. During the Middle Ages, blue was worn as it represented purity in the religious portrayals of the Virgin Mary. In Renaissance times, deep red and gold symbolised wealth, joy and propriety. Often Indian and Chinese brides wear red which symbolises luck and is an auspicious colour. In Africa bright bold colours symbolise joy. In total contrast, in Scandinavia black was a favourite. In Japan and Korea brightly coloured silk robes signified which dynasty you belonged to and the season of the year. During war time, serving brides wore uniforms and civilians cobbled together whatever they could with clothing coupons.

The museum is fortunate to be able to display several wedding dresses. These garments have been worn by Stansbury women and treasured for generations. They are now displayed in the museum to be treasured and shared not only with their family but all of us.

The museum also has an unrivalled collection of photographs collated by local Stansbury dressmaker, the late Mrs Doris Vince, of all the wedding and bridesmaids' dresses she made for the women of Stansbury over a period of 60 years. These wedding dresses and photos are a treat not to be missed!

IN-BETWEENS / TAI CHI GROUP

A group of 33 people did a tour of Cheetham Salt Works at Price on 16th July. We were welcomed by 3 employees and given a short history of the 100 years that the company has operated at the site and how it has expanded. Details included that with 85 employees, they are the second biggest employers on Yorke Peninsula, following the local Councils. The company supply 90% of all Australia's salt, with different products and under various brand names including Saxa and the pool salt Sunray. The final is the brine which is sold as a spray to wet down dusty industrial sites and roads.

Due to the sunny day, we were able to drive to the ' pond' where they were harvesting the salt, see the trucks unloading into a washing machine then on an elevator to be put on salt piles. These piles are left outside for a maximum of two years; this allows more water to evaporate and a crust to form making it easier to crush. Cheetham Salt harvests 200,000 tons of salt per year.

After being separated into 2 groups we went on a tour of the processing plant. The plant works 24 hours 7 days a week, with 4 day shifts, 4 days off and then 4 night shifts. Due to the speed required to keep up with the plant and to stop repetitive strain and standing in one spot, employees have 4 stations and rotate every 30 minutes. To alleviate the machine noise music is played through ear buds and masks, goggles and hair/beard nets make a safe working environment. On leaving we were all given a drum of Saxa salt and bag of rock crystals.

Lunch at the Price Wheatsheaf Hotel followed and was enjoyed by everyone. There is a small museum with the history of the town written along the walls and various town articles on exhibit, that is well worth a visit. A very enjoyable day and the most commented on the number of times they have driven past the town not knowing that it has such a big and important history.

Our next planned event is a speaker from My Aged Care on the 17th of September at 10.00am in the Supper Room at the Stansbury Institute. This is open to everyone, and we welcome you to join us for lunch at the Blue Lime Cafe afterwards. More information in next month's Scribble. Enquiries for further information contact: Carrol 0409 094 009.

FIELD GUN - MEMORIAL SITE

RSL Stansbury

The Stansbury sub branch of the RSL recently have had the field gun, located on the foreshore, adjacent to the Dalrymple Hotel, refurbished after receiving a grant from the Department of Veterans Affairs.

The gun was manufactured at the Ordinance Factory, Maribyrnong Victoria in 1942 and probably saw service in the New Guinea campaigns or northern home defence. A particular interesting fact is that it has the King George Coat of Arms embossed on the barrel.

After remounting the gun, it was decided to replace the frayed and perished tyres. Jason Newbold from Minlaton Auto Centre kindly donated new tyres and fitted them at no cost to the RSL; thereby, returning the gun, as near as possible, to its original condition.

The field gun, together with the flagpole was placed in its current position in 1962. The site has also recently been designated a war memorial and placed on the national register.

Sincere thanks to Jason and the team from Minlaton Auto Centre for their support.

The photo depicts Jason, RSL members and volunteers who assisted in the restoration of the gun.

LIONS CLUB OF STANSBURY DALRYMPLE.

Club members and volunteers recently conducted a Children's Vision Screening at Minlaton District School. Students participate in four activity stations where they are screened for issues such as colour and depth perception, vision over distance and using a special camera, looking at near and far sightedness as some of the issues that could be a factor in learning.

One in 5 children have an undetected vision condition. It is important to pick up any problems as soon as possible to reduce the impact on their development.

Thanks to all those who participated over the two days, and to the staff of Minlaton District school for their support. Special thanks to the Minlaton Bakery and Minlaton Foodland for their support of the volunteers with the provision of a delicious morning tea on each day.
